2nd International Conference on
URBAN TREE DIVERSITY
Melbourne, Australia, 22 to 24 February 2016

This interdisciplinary conference brings together leading researchers and practitioners from all over the world to discuss all aspects of urban tree diversity.

Plenary speakers are five global leaders in urban forest research and practice:

Susan Day (Virginia Tech, USA) will present research and progress of an ongoing USA program to promote urban forestry training and education

C Y Jim (Hong Kong Univ., China) will present on the challenge and opportunity for urban tree management in a dense urban context.

Diane Pataki (Utah Univ., USA) is a leading researcher of urban tree physiology and ecology, particularly in the context of hot, dry cities.

Anne Jaluzot (Tree Design Action Group, UK) Author of 'Trees in Hard Landscapes: A Guide for Delivery' and 'Trees in the Townscape: Guide for Decision Makers'.

Cecil Konijnendijk (SLU, Sweden) will discuss community participation and engagement to drive positive and lasting change in our urban forests.

We look forward to seeing you in Melbourne
