

The Transition Movement

The Transition movement has become one of the most promising ways of engaging people and communities to take the far-reaching actions necessary to increase economic equality, build local, renewable energy infrastructure, support a healthy, regional food system and forge mutually-supportive connections. Thousands of people from 44 countries around the globe are now engaged in Global Transition Network activities.

OUR TRAINERS

Two highly experienced transition trainers, Tina Clarke and Dr. Alastair Lough will be facilitating the course. Ms. Clarke, is a co-founder of All Things Local Coop in Amherst Massachusetts, consultant at the Sustainability Institute and former Director for the Clean Water Action Initiative where she directed programs on toxic chemicals, environmental justice, global warming and climate change to leaders and community action groups. She has been described as the most experienced Transition trainers in the world.

Dr. Alastair Lough, has a PhD. in Natural Resource Management, and is a co-founder of the Transition Center in Portland, Maine. Together they bring decades of experience in natural resources, organizational behavior, group facilitation, visioning processes, event planning and environmental leadership
